

LOOK NOW

FACING BREAST CANCER

Look Now: Facing Breast Cancer is a photographic exhibition and multimedia installation that breaks down the barriers between the public persona of survivors and their private struggles with the disease. It's on view at Point of Contact Gallery (350 W. Fayette Street) from October 8 through 31, Monday – Saturday, 12-5 pm, or by appointment. It is free and open to the public. All are welcome.

Look Now focuses on the personal stories of breast cancer survivors from Central New York. Interactive text, graphics, mirrors, and a short film enhance the exhibition's visual core, which presents 44 participants—25 with clothed photographic portraits and images of bare chests, and 19 who have chosen to remain anonymous except for their bare chest close-ups.

Syracuse University professor Tula Goenka is the project director, Cindy Bell is the photographer, and Sara Felice is the curator.

Look Now is part of Syracuse University's Syracuse Symposium series, whose theme in 2018-19 is Stories, an exploration of how we tell them and what effects whose stories we hear.
