MEMORIAL PUBLIC
AFFAIRS LECTURE

Celebrating 50 Years of Black Studies as a Core Discipline and Field

CAROL HENDERSON, PhD

JARED A. BALL, PhD

DANA A. WILLIAMS, PhD

We invite you to celebrate with the Department of African American Studies a half-century of critical thought and inquiry in studying African heritage in the United States and abroad. This year's lecture will feature a panel of leading scholars in the fields of Africana Studies across disciplines. Each will discuss the impact and importance of celebrating 50 years of Black Studies in our current political and social climate. Q&A will follow and light refreshments will be served. This is a commemorative event that you do not want to miss!
